State & County Issues Increase General Election Importance

What The Amendments Propose To Accomplish

(Palm Beach County voters face an unusually long ballot in Tuesday's election. Included are a dozen constitutional amendments to be voted upon. They require from six to 15 minutes reading time to comprehend. Yet the law allows you only five minutes within the voting booth. Hence, it is imperative that you become aware of what the amendments are about before you go to the polls. With this in mind — and as a service to our readers — OBSERVER publishes the following condensations of proposed amendments, based largely upon data provided by the Florida League of Women Voters. — Editor)

No. 1 — Revision of the Judicial Department. Article V.

Would integrate the State Court System under the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court as administrative head; would create three District Courts of Appeal with final appellate jurisdiction in the majority of cases, relieving the tremendous case-load of the Supreme Court and expedite final disposition of cases before the Court.

Would also automatically retire all Justices and Judges at the age of 70 and regulate admissions to the Bar and the disciplining of attorneys by the Supreme Court.

No. 2 — Home Rule For Dade County. Article VIII, Section 11.

Although voted upon statewide, this amendment affects Dade County only. In order to handle many local problems, the people of Florida counties must go to the Legislature every two years, with hundreds of local bills, which are passed, on the request of each county's legislative delegation, without further consideration.

If this amendment is carried, Dade County matters may be decided by the voters of Dade County, excepting administration of the schools and the courts created under the Constitution and the general laws of the State. It makes Home Rule for the municipalities of Dade County mandatory.

No. 3 — (This space on the ballot will be blank, as its proposal has been repealed.)

No. 4 — Extra Sessions of the Legislature. Article III, Section 2.

Would add to present provisions regarding regular and special sessions of the Legislature. Would enable the Legislature to call itself into extra session if one-fifth of the members apply

Roberts Opposes 67-Senator Reapportionment Proposal

BELLE GLADE — Although he's a mild-mannered man who doesn't have the reputation of being an "aggressor," Representative Emmett S. Roberts is outspoken on one issue: Palm Beach County residents will vote on the Tuesday election.

Roberts is dead-set against the proposal which would increase the size of the state senate to 67 and the membership of the state house of representatives to 135.

This proposal is No. 5 on the ballot, and Roberts urges the voters to pull the lever marked "Against," on it.

The proposal is deceptive in its entirety, Roberts said in its entirety. True, it would increase Palm Beach County representation in the state legislature. It would give the county four representatives instead of the present two.

But the county would still be represented by a single senator, so the net effect would be that Palm Beach County would have less power than it has now in the legislature, Roberts says.

In effect, if voters approve the proposal to reapportion the legislature, northern counties with small populations would have an even greater stranglehold on the legislature than they now have.

Biggest error in the reapportionment proposal, Roberts declares, however, is giving each county a single senator. This would increase the size of the senate from the present 38 membership, to 67.

The situation in the senate now is bad enough, Roberts says, without consciously trying

In writing to the Secretary of State, and if three-fifths of the members, upon being polled, vote for such a session.

No. 5 — Reapportionment of the Legislature. Article VII, Sections 2, 3, 4.

Would increase membership to 67 Senators (one to each county) from present 38 Senators. Would increase House membership to 135 from present 85.

(For details on this, see story elsewhere on Page 1 about Rep. Emmett Roberts' opinions on reapportionment.)

No. 6 — Additional Judge, Criminal Court of Record, Dade Co. Article V.

Would enable Dade County to add a second judge to its Criminal Court of Record.

No. 7 — Appointment of County Superintendents of Public Instruction in Dade, Duval, Pinellas and Sarasota Counties. Article XII.

Would enable voters of above four counties to hold special election to determine whether they want their county school superintendent appointed by County School Boards or elected by voters.

No. 8 — Abolishing the Office of School Trustee. Article XII.

If this proposal passes, electors in any given county would still have to ratify this amendment at a second election. Proposal would abolish County School Trustee Boards. Trustees now have only advisory powers and their duties are said to duplicate those of the County School Board. Trustees recommend the millage levy to the Board and nominate personnel to them, while the Board sets the millage and employs all personnel.

Trustees are provided for by the constitution, and their duties can be changed only by vote of the people of Florida. County School Boards, their duties and regulations have been provided for by the Legislature, which can amend or change or eliminate County School Boards without a vote of the people.

No. 9 — Abolishing the Office of County Solicitor, Dade County. Article V.

Would abolish the office of County Solicitor in Dade County and transfer all duties of that office to the State's Attorney.

No. 10 — Fees and Compensation of County Officers in Escambia County. Article VIII.

Provides for the payment of all revenues collected by the County Officers into the County Civil Fund and for the fixing of their compensation by legislative act.

No. 11 — Establishing Civil Service Systems. Article XVI, new section.

Would allow the Legislature to establish Civil Service Systems and Boards for municipal county and state employees and for municipal, county and state officers, not appointed by the Governor nor elected by the people.

No. 12 — Jury Trials of Civil Suits and Location of County Officers in Pinellas County. Article XVI.

Applies to Pinellas County, only, and would permit the Legislature to provide for jury trials of civil suits in any municipality, over 75,000, within the county, providing also for the location of county officers.

(No Number) — Question:

Shall "An Act relating to the Criminal Court of Record of Palm Beach County, Florida; providing for two judges for said court, the manner of their selection, their tenure and salaries; repealing all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith; and for other purposes; providing a referendum," become effective?

Councilmen Buy Fire Truck; Seek To Curb 'Absenteeism'

PAHOKEE — This city will have a spanking new $10,350 streamlined fire truck sooner than expected, because members of the fire department attended Monday night's regular meeting of the City Council.

Councilmen received bids from four fire truck manufacturers and were all set to table action until they could study bids.

Whereupon Fire Chief Marvin, Levin and Firemen Paul Collier, David Cunningham, Sam McKinstry Jr. and Bobby Shackford stepped forward to advise the council they had thoroughly studied all trucks and were prepared to offer their recommendations.

Council thereupon accepted the bid submitted by Howe Fire Apparatus Company of Anderson, Ind., which will deliver the truck in about three months.

Present for the meeting were Council President George H. Tucker Jr., and Councilmen Blanche Armstrong, Edgar Wilder and John Hutton.

Seeking a method to discourage part-time residents from filing for election to City Council, Councilmen Wilder and Hutton engineered a motion

Boys Find Bombs Are For Birds

BELLE GLADE — A quintet of youths Wednesday night learned that "bird bombs" are strictly for the birds — even on Halloween.

The five boys — one of them a juvenile and the others in the 16-21 year old bracket — were using the "bombs" as firecrackers and tossing them along Belle Glade's principal streets when apprehended by police at 9:45 p.m. One of the boys was from Belle Glade, the remainder from the South Bay area.

Police also arrested a Negro youth for firing firecrackers.

HATTON AGAIN URGES ACCESS ROAD TO P-W

PAHOKEE — For the second time in little more than a month City Councilman John Hatton initiated action at Monday's council meeting to get the City of Pahokee's resolution official before the County Commission, urging creation of an access road from the Glades to the new Pratt & Whitney plant.

On Sept. 17 Hatton fathered a motion requesting a letter be sent to the County Commission demanding such a road.

Monday, Hatton said County he hadn't presented the letter to Commissioner Rardin reported the commission because he had not seen it.

City Clerk Patsy Batchelor said she wrote the letter following the Sept. 17 meeting and sent it to Rardin at his office in Canal Point.

SEN. DICKINSON SPEAKS

PAHOKEE — Rotarians attending yesterday's luncheon meeting heard Senator F. O. "Bud" Dickinson Jr. discuss the proposed amendments to the Constitution.

The Senator was introduced by Thad Whidden who was in charge of the program.

BETTER GLADES SCHOOLS — IF BONDS ARE OK'D BY VOTERS TUES.

Glades area schools, fighting to hold the line against overcrowding and insufficient facilities, will get $1,314,940 in new classrooms and additions if voters approve the school bond issue in next Tuesday's election.

This will mean such improvements as four classrooms, new lunch and music rooms and a gymnasium for Pahokee students; a lunchroom at Canal Point; six classrooms at Belle Glade elementary; four classrooms, cafeteria, shops, and music room at Belle Glade high and alteration and furniture at South Bay and Lake Harbor elementary.

Rosenwald will get five classrooms, library and toilets; Lake Shore high, nine classrooms, shop, commercial, cafeteria, music room and gymnasium; Lake Shore elementary, seven classrooms and library; East Lake, five classrooms and toilets.

With a total enrollment of 4,477 in the Glades schools in classes as of Oct. 1, and with the Pratt & Whitney and allied industry plants due to bring an enormous influx of people into western Palm Beach County as well as the coast, school enrollments will continue to go up, surveys show.

Offering Low At Cattle Sale

BELLE GLADE — Supply dovelated at the cattle sale at Glades Livestock Market on Monday, with only 532 head being processed through the arena. Manager George C. Young said, "Dollar volume was $41,226.17 on the offering of 52 calves, three yearlings, 82 heifers, 143 cows, 253 steers and 19 bulls. Fifty-five percent went to slaughter."

Price increases were noted for slaughter steers, which ranged from 50 cents to 81 per cwt. higher, and for slaughter cows, which brought 50 cents higher than last week. Sale summary:

Leaders Act To Raise Glades Vote Turnout

The heaviest Glades turnout in years is expected to jam polling places next Tuesday in the General election which will settle many political issues.

In addition to casting votes in the presidential race, voters have the opportunity of electing congressional, state and county officials.

Normally the presidential issue is enough to turn voters in large numbers. But this year vigorous action by the county Citizens Committee for Better Schools has pushed for inclusion of a proposal to float $10,900,000 in bonds to improve county schools, and this proposal is expected to account for heavy voting.

Voters would do well to get their ballot-casting done early in the day Tuesday, for the ballot is unusually long and time spent in the booth per voter will likely be longer than usual.

In most Glades communities civic leaders are doing their best to "get-out-the-vote." For example:

In Pahokee and Belle Glade, Jaycees will man public address-equipped autos to urge voter turnouts on Tuesday. Four ladies in Pahokee and the Committee On Political Education in Belle Glade will provide transportation to the polls upon request. And baby sitters will be provided by Girl Scouts at the polls, while parents occupy themselves within the voting booths.

Girl Scouts in both cities will be busy Saturday distributing "I will vote" tags to adults, to remind them of their privileges and obligations.

Pahokians will be offered a gala barbecue which is expected to foster an "old-fashioned" election turnout mood. Sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club, the barbecue will be staged from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. on the grounds at City Hall.

Pahokians will be able to feast on barbecued beef and chicken and still watch election returns, for Fire Chief Marvin Levin will remove trucks from the adjoining fire station to enable Fitzgerald's TV & Appliances to set up a TV set so the public can scan returns.

General Chairman for the BFW barbecue is Mr. Doris Sasser, who says her aides, Mrs. Johnnie Verhulst and Mrs. Betty Gordy, are ordering enough food for 500 voters. Official barbecue is Mrs. Allie Okie; Mrs. Lucile Johnson is chairman of servers, and Miss Jane Plummer heads the clean-up committee.

Glades Employees

PAHOKEE — A dinner observance of the safety record of the Glades district employees of Florida Power & Light Company who went for a six-month period without a lost-time accident, was held recently at the Woman's Club building, according to Curtis Chase, district manager.

Approximately 60 persons attended.

Out-of-town guests included R. D. Hill, West Palm Beach, divisional manager; C. H. Alexander, West Palm Beach, divisional personnel representative; and Mrs. Alexander; C. H. Parkerson, manager of Okeechobee district.

ALL OVER THE GLADES, as in all of Palm Beach County, too many kids pack too few classrooms as the school population hits a new peak of 27,824. Not only are classrooms in short supply, but so are proper lunch facilities, such as the inadequate cafeteria of the Belle Glade schools. The handsome Belle Glade gymnasium does double duty, as shown in picture, by partial conversion to a lunchroom each day. Tuesday, Glades area voters will decide at the polls whether the school bond issue passes in order that the overcrowded Glades schools can have new and expanded facilities.

CURRENTLY

The Tuesday election will mark the end of work for a lot of politicians. Now they'll be able to look forward to Thanksgiving — with thanks-giving!

— PED —

Pahoek football fans who've been disappointed in their team's showing have this consolation: Last week the Blue Devils was the ONLY winning team in the Glades.

— PED —

Proof of Belle Glade's growth may be found in their city commissioners' talking of meeting every week instead of fortnightly, to handle increased city business. Or maybe the commissioners simply want their hassling in shorter — and oftener — doses.

The English are about as good as the Greeks in "having a word for it." If an emotional upset in yours over election returns, we suggest you don't fly into a "paddywhack" — i.e., British colloquialism meaning intense anger or rage — American colloquialism, a spanking. Good! ... could be, too.

BY WIN PENDLETON

TIME TO RELAX — We are tired already. Next Tuesday is election day. Newspaper columnists are supposed to keep folks at a fever pitch just before election day. But we gave out. We are tired of listening. We've heard enough. We want to vote and get done with it.

We don't know about you, but we have listened to enough political speeches for this session. We have heard enough charges and countercharges. If we believed everything bad we have heard from both sides, we would hate to see anybody elected. From all the confused reports and predictions we don't see how either side can win.

Right now, we're a bit slaphappy. We feel like laughing at the whole shebang. Instead of listening to the political arguments during the past few days, we have been eaves-dropping on the political stories going around Capitol Hill.

Some can't be printed, of course, but the favorite "clean" one is about the man driving in to town on election day. He picked up two hitch-hikers. He asked them where they were going and they said they were going to town to vote. He asked the first one how he was going to vote.

"I'm going to vote Republican," the man said.

The motorist stopped the car and put him out. He drove on. He asked the other fellow the same question. Being smart, he told the motorist he was a Democrat. They drove on. Nothing more was said until they passed a watermelon patch and the driver said to the hitch-hiker, "Nobody's looking, let's get a melon."

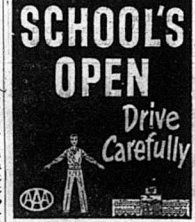

So they sneaked a watermelon real quick and drove on to a wayside park where they cut it and began to eat it. At that point the hitch-hiker burst into laughter. He almost had hysterics. The motorist said, "What in the world is the matter with you? What are you laughing at?" "I was just thinking," the hitch-hiker said. "Here, I've been a Democrat only 15 minutes and already I'm stealing." (It might be well to note that the political affiliation of the characters and the "party" in the punch-line vary according to who is telling the story.)

One lady here told a friend how she was going to vote and her friend said, "Don't you know that man is a crook? He should be in jail. He's a scoundrel. The other man is one of the finest gentlemen in town. Up-right, honest, sober, a wonderful citizen." "I know," the first lady said, "but after they are in office any length of time, they end up crooked, and I don't want to ruin a good man."

All the old stories are being "dusted" off to fit the candidates. Nixon and Kefauver are both referred to daily as the "most promising" men in the country. And we heard this one retold four times before lunch the other day: "We have the best public officials in the world — the finest money can buy."

And this one, 60 years old: A lady was admiring a boy's small new-born puppies. This one is named Eisenhower and this one is Nixon. They're Republicans," the little fellow explained. Two weeks later, the lady saw the little boy and said, "How are your little puppies, Eisenhower and Nixon?" The youngster replied, "Oh, I changed their names to Stevenson and Kefauver." "But, I thought they were Republican puppies," she said. "Oh, they were two weeks ago. But they're Democrats now — their eyes are open." (P.S. Don't forget to vote.)

Glades Must Do More Than Just 'Grow' Produce

(Complexities of the modern business world — and competition from all sides — demand that farmers and shippers aggressively market their produce. Glades growers have talked informally of self-assessing themselves from 1/4- to 1/2-cent per package to raise a "slush fund" for advertising and promoting Glades-grown products. Hence, OBSERVER presents this article.

(The State Citrus Commission propagandizes with millions of dollars raised in this manner, as does the Florida Beef Council, aided by about $325 monthly from Glades Livestock Market, which collects 10 cents per head sold from cattleman. — Editor)

BY SPUDS JOHNSON

Getting food from the farm to the dinner table is fast becoming a major economic activity. Speed and economy of furnishing fresh Florida strawberries for Northern-baked short-cake, in the dead of winter, exemplifies the problem.

This job of putting table-grade produce within reach of housewives is done by a vast system of marketing institutions working around the clock. Marketing engages nearly 10 percent of our labor force.

The national cost of food marketing is not small. In 1955 it cost $2 billion dollars; this is more than double the 14 billion spent in 1954.

Farmers are concerned over higher marketing costs. They also are concerned over changes in types and varieties of foods consumers are demanding. These changes often mean higher packaging cost before the produce leaves the farm.

Farmers say their income from food sales has not kept pace with other industries. The present farm income is at the level of a decade ago.

Competition for the food dollar is growing more intense. The consumer's appetite is for new appliances, new household gadgets, more travel, a second car, color TV and countless items — not food.

Most Americans now buy products that go far beyond meeting bare essentials of living. When buying groceries, they no longer obtain food for the family. They also satisfy aesthetic values, desires for convenience, and in some instances exotic taste. Those who meet these consumer demands best are likely to win in the competitive race.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture and land-grant colleges of the nation are assisting the farmers to compete in the race. Marketing research being conducted at the University of Florida includes citrus, meat, sweet corn, milk, Irish potatoes and other produce.

Farmers, distributors and consumers have a vital stake in food. It's a financial stake because the farmers must be able to receive a margin of profit to stay in the business of producing the food for all of us.

In this land of plentiful production and eager buyers — marketing is an important follow-up of agricultural production.

belongs to the theatre, not to our schools! Yet here in Palm Beach County many classes are crowded beyond capacity now. Storerooms, gyms, cafeterias, have been pressed into service for classrooms. More than 2,000 children may be forced to double sessions by Christmas time.

100 percent increase in eight years! That's the emergency. Your School Board has tried to keep up with the demand. has built 600 new classrooms, but funds are not sufficient.

Experts made the survey showing needs in every section. 17 new school centers and improvements to 35 present plants are recommended for early construction.

The county-wide bond issue to be approved by Freeholders next Tuesday will do the job. Cost to Taxpayers will be very little. Many will pay nothing because of Homestead Exemptions. If you now pay $10 a year for all County Taxes the highest increase for the bonds is only 84 cents a year. In other districts the rate will be lower. Support this construction program for your children's good!

PROTECT YOUR CHILD AT HOME

More children die from accidents than from the combined total of the seven leading diseases.

Deaths from poliomyelitis, cancer, leukemia, tuberculosis and heart disease are relatively few as compared with the number of deaths from accident. With the exception of motor vehicle fatalities, the type of fatal accident to a child is related to his age. From birth to one year, for instance, burns and suffocation are the most common cause of death—next to automobile accidents. From one to five years of age, drowning is second and poisoning is third in cause of accidental death.

Deaths from poisoning increase tragically during the second year of life. It is at this age that accident prevention is almost completely dependent on protection rather than on the child's education. The burden of blame for accidents at this early period, and protection against accident, must be carried by the parents.

The very young child is inquisitive and samples everything and anything. Leaving poisonous chemicals within reach of the child is inexcusable negligence. The common practice of storing kerosene, turpentine and other poisonous liquids in old soft drink bottles or milk bottles invites accidental poisoning.

An equally dangerous custom is to leave within reach medicines as aspirin, and medications in the form of candy or tasty liquid. The child is unaware of the potency of drugs which in the proper dosage for an adult are helpful, but taken in quantity by a child, may bring on disastrous effects. Protect your child home by finding and removing these hazards.

Hugh Rudder is the newly-elected superintendent of the intermediate department and Mrs. Henry Collins will be in charge of the expanded extension department of the Sunday School. New workers have been added to this department which ministers to those who are unable to attend Sunday School. James Hendry is Mrs. Collins' assistant.

Sara Ann Norman, Sue Clarke, Sally Collier and Martha Faye Davidson, accompanied by Mrs. U. W. Malcolm and Mrs. S. M. McAllister, attended the Baptist Girls' Auxiliary state house-party in West Palm Beach last weekend.

It has been announced that last week's clinic for Sunday School officers and teachers had an enrollment of 88. Workers from Baptist churches in Pahokee, Canal Point, South Bay and Belle Glade took part in the clinic.

The youth of the church enjoyed a Halloween fellowship in the church's recreation hall last Sunday evening.

BG Episcopalians To Observe Anniversary

The Episcopal Church of St. John the Apostle in Belle Glade will observe the first anniversary of the dedication of the church on Tuesday at 7:30 a.m. with a celebration of the Eucharist by the vicar, Father John Clarence Petrie.

The church building was dedicated last year following a three-day mission conducted by the Very Rev. Canon W. L. Hargrave, SIM, executive secretary of the diocese of South Florida. Because the feast falls this year on election day, there will be no evening service.

This Sunday being within the Octave of All Saints, the Holy Eucharist will be offered in the Belle Glade church at 9 a.m., with procession of crucifer, torch bearers and acolytes.

At 11 a.m., Father Petrie will celebrate the Eucharist and preside at the Church of the Holy Nativity, Pahokee. Morning prayer and a sermon will be included in the service at St. Martin's in Clewiston.

COAST INVADES GLADES, VERO AT BG, STUART AT PAHOKEE

Bound and re-bound are the battle cries of Glades football teams tonight as they take on invasions from Coastal foes in Suncoast Conference play.

Belle Glade, which was rudely upset last week by Stuart, entertains powerful Vero Beach, league leaders and conquerors last week of Clewiston.

Coach Jim Maynor's Rams, battered and bruised last week, will have their hands full with the heavy Vero Beach eleven in efforts to stay in contention for the Suncoast crown. Coach Web Fell's Pahokee team, with a one-game win streak alive by virtue of its 22-0 shellacking of Okeechobee last week, takes on the upstart Stuart club which last week handed Belle Glade its only loss this season.

Stuart is closer to the bottom than the top of the Suncoast dog-fight, but its once-green team has matured into a troublesome quantity.

Pell's Blue Devils will be at full strength, and he'll start much the same lineup that administered the win last week. His backfield will have Dick Shackford at quarterback, Earl Meredith and Cliff Stuart at halfbacks and Richard Weeks at fullback.

Up front Max Beverly and Charley Hayes will be at ends.

The Rams starting lineup will have Dan Jones and Earl Armstrong at ends, Randy Wan-

BOATRIGHT TO BUILD NEW LIBRARY SHELVES

PAHOKEE — The city library board met Tuesday night at Civic Center and awarded a contract to Walter Boatright to construct 42 feet of 8-foot high shelving in the library's new location in the Center.

Police Chief Charles Goodlett reported Belle Glade's Halloween was the quietest in years. "I'm real proud of our boys and girls," he said.

Pahokee's Police Chief Leonard Guthrie said property damage in his community was practically nil, too. "There was some soaping of windows but that was about all," he said.

MARKET NEWS ISSUES SEASON'S FIRST REPORT

BELLE GLADE — The Federal-State Market News Service office for the Glades area has reopened for the 1956-57 season.

The office is again located in the Pop Lord building, with Fred L. Tuttle as manager for this section. The shipments of Tuttle was employed during the summer as relief manager to those in the system who were on vacation.

The first Glades report was issued Monday when 52 cars of produce rolled to markets from this section. The shipments included 24 cars of snapbeans, 18 cars of sweet corn, 10 cars of radishes, less than a car of Chinese cabbage and a light volume of pole beans.

HOUSING SHORTAGE ACUTE IN GLADES AREA EVIDENT

PAHOKEE — With the winter season just getting underway the housing shortage in the Glades appears to be acute.

Mrs. Mae Pope, Chamber of Commerce secretary, said this week she has been unable to find housing for numerous people who have made inquiries at her office.

Industrial Arts Building At PHS

PAHOKEE — Construction of a temporary building to house industrial art classes is well underway on the Pahokee high school campus.

Principal Clyde A. Canipe said this week that the 20-by-60-ft. building will be completed for use by the beginning of the second semester but that a shortage of teachers may delay industrial arts classes until next year.

Primary purpose of the program is to give "do-it-yourself" training in use of hand tools to eighth grade boys and to take them out of agricultural classes. As the program develops, Canipe said, it is hoped instruction in use of power tools, general metals, electricity and mechanical drawing can be offered. Ag classes would continue to be given to senior high school boys.

authorizing City Attorney Ralph Johnson to draw up an amendment for altering the city charter, which would be submitted to the next session of the state legislature and which would automatically vacate the seat held by any councilman if he missed any three meetings during the calendar year for reasons other than sickness or duress.

Mrs. Armstrong supported Hutton and Wilder on the motion, but "Tucker voted 'no,' saying he felt it was the council's business if they wanted to elect a person to the council with full knowledge that possibly the candidate would not be present at all meetings.

In other actions, council REJECTED a single bid on a new police cruiser, and called for new bids.

REJECTED two bids for a police car radio, and called for new bids.

ACCEPTED bid from Glades Equipment Co., Inc. for a new 12-ton pickup truck for the sanitation department, at $1,740 less $440 for trade-in of old truck.

TABLED for further study a pension plan for city employees submitted by Vance Denton.

RECEIVED a survey from O. H. Blech and C. E. Williams on city insurance policies and named Mrs. Armstrong and Mayor Parrish to study the survey.

HEARD report from Hilton Jones on behalf of himself, Robert Hutton, C. R. Crossman and Joe Thompson that harvest labor loading zones remain on the street, Council decided to study.

Roberts --

to make it worse. As the senate is now apportioned, 17.1 percent of the state's voters could elect a majority of the present 38-man group, on the basis of the '56 census.

But if Proposal No. 5 passes, it'll take only 10.3 percent of the voters (those living in the north) to elect a majority of the 67-man senate using the '50 census. If the '55 census data were used, it would enable northern counties to elect a majority of the senate majority with only eight percent of the state vote.

Unless voters veto the proposal, Roberts says, it'll mean domination of the legislature by small counties to the extent that all major legislation by the state's law-making bodies will of necessity be sheer compromises with the state's smallest counties.

The picture in the house is almost as bad. The proposal would reapportion the house per the '50 census and theoretically it would take at least 30 percent of the popular vote in strategically-located counties to have a majority of the proposed 135 representatives.

But, because of the rapid growth of the state, the '55 census shows that 27.7 of the voters could elect the house majority. Admittedly this is an improvement over the 17.1 percent it now takes, but it doesn't add up to justice when one views what the proposal makes ridiculously possible in the senate, Roberts believes.

For does it take account of continued population growth in the larger counties? What's the answer to the state's perpetual problems of reapportionment as some counties — Palm Beach among them — continue to grow fantastically, all out of proportion to growth of other counties?

Well, the answer isn't in this constitutional amendment which will show up on the No. 5 slot Tuesday, Roberts sees realistic reapportionment only through wisely-drawn-up revision of the state constitution, a project on which a revision commission is working at the moment to submit to the 1957 legislature. He hopes this group will work out representation, which will be just for all Floridians.

The Belle Glade legislator has company in his opposition to Proposal No. 5 — from a state official who comes from one of the state's northern counties. That man is Leroy Collins.

Better Schools --

"yes" to the school bond issue at the next Tuesday, Chairman Joe Blank of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools said this week. "In both PTA work and civic effort, Glades residents have a splendid reputation. By their vote on the school bond issue Tuesday they can bring their schools up to the standards necessary for growing communities."

Cost to the taxpayer voter in the Glades is far below what he might expect, said Blank. In Pahokee, for instance, for each $10 in county taxes he now pays, the taxpayer will pay an additional 54 cents for the new bond issue.

Serving from the Glades on the Citizens Committee are Junius T. Harris, Frank C. Dooley, Mrs. Frank C. Dooley, Joe Friedheim, Herman Close, Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, R. E. Hotard, and W. C. Taylor, all of Belle Glade; Mayor F. S. Parrish, Dr. Richard Lane, J. W. Vann, Mr. and Mrs. John Dulany, George Tucker Jr., L. L. Shirley, and Vance E. Denton, Pahokee, and J. B. Johnson, Canal Point.
